

Through nature's natural cycle of life, a portion of trees are lost at Indian Lake State Park on an annual basis. Soil compaction, storms, disease, erosion and insect predation are some of the causes of the loss. Trees provide many valuable benefits for our environment and quality of life. They provide shade and act as windbreaks. They recycle our air, removing carbon dioxide and adding oxygen, while providing widelife food and habitat, decreasing soil erosion and adding beautiful aesthetic value.

or many years, residents, businesses, and visitors have chosen to remember and honor loved ones by purchasing a tree as a "living memorial" to be planted overlooking Indian Lake State Park. The ILDC, an organization of concerned citizens who support Indian Lake State Park, has taken on the oversight of the memorial tree program and invite those interested in purchasing a memorial tree to use the form below to honor a loved one.
